20K tickets issued for cellphone use

Police also issued roughly 1,400 penalties for impaired driving and 435 tickets for excessive speeding between Sept. 20 and Oct. 10 In addition, nearly 1,700 vehicles were impounded during that time

It seems police weren't kidding when they said they'd be cracking down on distracted drivers this year, according to numbers released by ICBC.

More than 21,000 tickets were handed out for driving infractions between Feb. 1 and Aug. 1. Of those, 95 per cent were to people texting or talking behind the wheel.

Legislation was introduced in January to ban the use of hand-held devices while driving.

Solicitor General Mike de Jong said the number of offences reflect the need to change dangerous driving behaviour.

U.K. rejects among migrants

Some of the Tamil migrants who arrived on ships in British Columbia waters were already rejected refugees from the United Kingdom.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney, speaking in Delta, revealed the information as he announced new human smuggling laws the federal government hopes will deter such operations.

"This unlawful behaviour is nothing more than jumping the immigration queue, taking up space and resources in our immigration and refugee system that should be focused on those who are legitimate and lawfully waiting their turn to come to Canada," Kenney said.

But Canadian law doesn't stop a failed refugee claimant in one country from making the same claim in Canada.

Immigration lawyer Daniel McLeod has seen the situation several times.

"Unfortunately with the current government, they have an ideological bias against refugees, in spite of the fact Canada has other, more important, problems to deal with than bashing refugees to gain votes," McLeod said.

While all 76 refugee claimants who arrived on the Ocean Lady last October have been released, only 72 of the almost 500 Sun Sea claimants have been released. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teens fall-guys in jewelry robbery

- Police believe youths recruited to rob store with promise of cash
- One will appear in court on Friday

JEFF HODSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Lured by criminals with the promise of easy cash, four teens were talked into holding up an Oakridge Mall jewelry store in a brazen robbery in which several gunshots were fired, Vancouver police said Thursday.

Three teens have been arrested, said Sgt. Dale Weidman, but the masterminds who recruited them are still walking the streets. The promised cash was never paid.

Weidman said police have a good idea of who put the teens up to the crime. He said it was not gang, nor organized crime.

On Sept. 30 at 8:30 p.m. a teen entered Montecristo Jewellers pretending to be a customer. He pulled out a gun and fired several shots.

"Youths being youths, they see this as being a bit of an adventure."

Two other teens assaulted the security guard outside the store and doused him with pepper spray. The three ran off with merchandise and were picked up by a fourth youth in a red van outside the mall.

One of the alleged robbers, a 15-year-old Surrey boy (he turned 16 last week), was arrested at the scene.

Two others, a 16-year-old and a 17-year-old from Vancouver, have since been arrested.

Torch to be lit to honour Poole

The Olympic Cauldron will reignite in Vancouver on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in memory of Jack Poole, former chair of the VANOC bid committee.

He died a year ago Saturday of pancreatic cancer.

"Quite frankly, I don't think we would have secured the Olympic Games for Vancouver if it hadn't been for Jack's leadership," said David Podmore, Poole's close friend and chair of B.C. Pavilion Corporation.

Premier Gordon Campbell, Podmore, and Darlene Poole will light the cauldron and unveil a commemorative plaque in a short ceremony in Jack Poole Plaza in Coal Harbour.

The Cauldron will burn until midnight on Saturday night.

'Caps supporters seatless in Seattle

Vancouver Southsiders concerned that Seattle Sounders FC could limit the number of tickets for visiting team supporters ◐ Three Cascadian MLS franchises working on potential solution for fans

@METRONEWS.CA

Whitecaps supporters are concerned over rumours Seattle may potentially limit the tickets allocated for a visiting team's supporters, threatening the natural "derby" match rivalries of the Pacific Northwest.

The "away game" phenomenon, or derby, sees hundreds, even thousands, of fans follow their team to an opposing stadium, singing and chanting.

Whitecaps president Bob Lenarduzzi said the issue is on the franchise's radar and a solution is being worked out for the three Cascadian MLS franchises.

"They're trying to use American-style sport marketing in a sport that is just inherently not American," said John Knox, president of the Vancouver Southsiders supporter group.

"They don't really have an understanding of what supporters culture is about and why this is so important to all of us who have been chomping at the bit to see our rivals on their own turf."

Knox said they've been hearing rumblings that the Seattle Sounders FC have security concerns and have considered limiting the number of tickets allocated for visiting team supporters to 150.

"When you've got your supporters there it spurs on the home crowd so they don't get out-chanted by the visiting team."
WHITECAPS PRESIDENT BOB LENARDUZZI

Lenarduzzi said the situation is being discussed among the three clubs (Vancouver, Seattle and the Portland Timbers) and the league.

"It's not something that is not on the radar screen. It is. And once we get to a point where we can confirm what can be done, then we will."

Lenarduzzi, who began his playing career in England before joining his hometown NASL Whitecaps, remembers large groups of Vancouver supporters heading to Seattle to watch the games and vice versa.

▶ Rick Rypien tussles with a fan.

Rick Rypien may have failed to balance his emotional intensity with his athletic performance, said a longtime sports psychologist.

"There are ways of regulating emotional intensity," said Saul Miller, who's worked with various NHL, NFL and NBA teams.

"I work a lot with conscious breathing and tension release techniques so that players have more skills when they feel they're getting too pumped up."

During Tuesday's NHL game between Vancouver and Minnesota, Rypien culminated a series of aggressive actions by grabbing and shaking a Wild fan.

Hockey's an aggressive game, says Miller. It's important for players to focus and mentally prepare for possible instigators.

"I remember Donald Brashear ... saying before games he'd anticipate players ... who might provoke him, so that he wouldn't be surprised ... (and would) act more intelligently."

The key to maintaining one's calm while playing aggressively is to balance emotional intensity with performance. It's when either side is pushed too far that aggression may override logic, Miller said.

Bad call for marijuana enthusiast

Here's a good reason not to have 911 on your speed dial, especially if you have marijuana growing in your basement.

A Vernon man accidentally hit 911 on his cellphone while it was in his pocket on Tuesday. He hung up, but following police protocol an officer was dispatched and ended up doing a safety check of the home. It resulted in the discovery of 60 pot plants and firearms. Three men in their 20s are facing charges. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Parties join forces to fight fees

The federal Liberals and B.C. NDP are calling on Ottawa to stop the B.C. Liberal government from charging user fees at Lower Mainland hospitals.

Federal Liberal Health critic Ujjal Dosanjh said yesterday the $29-a-day fees at Lower Mainland hospitals are against the Canada Health Act, and may deter patients from receiving care. B.C. Health Minister Kevin Falcon said the fees include a hardship provision for those who can't pay. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Body Worlds promotion had man and woman body-painted to showcase muscles, bones and tendons

JEFF HODSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Despite their almost complete lack of clothes, it would be difficult to accuse Michelle Cuthbert and Philip Wittmer of showing too much skin.

The fit pair hit the streets of Vancouver Thursday in their skivvies as part of a Body Worlds promotion in which their skin was airbrushed to resemble the muscles, tendons and bones that lay beneath.

"At first we were both a little nervous," said Cuthbert, a.k.a. Mrs. Anatomy.

"But as we've gotten desensitized to the fact that we're almost naked it's been a lot of fun."

The pair were chosen for the role following a 10-person competition at the Steve Nash Sports Club. The body painting, by airbrush artist Martin Armand, took four to five hours.

"There seem to be a lot of people who seem pretty interested, taking pictures on their phones and whatnot," Wittmer said.

Life the final chapter for killer

Tearful Russell Williams, saying he's 'indescribably ashamed,' is now in Kingston Pen

The unprecedented, sadistic crimes of convicted sex killer Col. Russell Williams have earned him a place among the worst criminals Canada has ever seen, court heard Thursday as the final chapter in the case drew to a close.

"The depths of the depravity demonstrated by Russell Williams had no equal," Ontario Superior Court Justice Robert Scott said as he sentenced the once-decorated officer to two concurrent life sentences with no possibility of parole for 25 years.

The 47-year-old former airbase chief is now in Kingston Penitentiary, home to some of the country's most notorious criminals.

Already branded "the devil" by the brother of one of his victims, Williams will go down as one of the worst killers in Canadian history, said Crown prosecutor Lee Burgess.

"We can all think of a handful of names and everybody knows those names, and he's now on that list," he said.

The Crown didn't seek dangerous offender status, however, saying it was "superfluous."

Williams' dark descent began with fetish break-ins that escalated to sexual assaults and culminated in the brutal sex killings of Cpl. Marie-France Comeau, 37, and Jessica Lloyd, 27.

Ontario awards man $4.25M

An Ontario man who was wrongly convicted of killing his niece based in part on evidence from disgraced pathologist Dr. Charles Smith will receive $4.25 million in compensation, the Ontario government announced yesterday.

William Mullins-Johnson spent 12 years in prison after being found guilty in 1994 of raping and murdering the four-year-old girl in his hometown of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Several experts later found no evidence to support Smith's conclusion that the girl had been sodomized and asphyxiated. In fact, they concluded she died of natural causes.

RENE JOHNSTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ William Mullins-Johnson

"We're very sorry … for the terrible pain and suffering that Mr. Mullins-Johnson has undergone," said Ontario Attorney General Chris Bentley.

"There's no amount of money that will ever make up for, or take away from, the pain and hurt over the years."

Mullins-Johnson, 40, was one of several people who were wrongly accused of killing children based on flawed evidence from Smith, a pediatric forensic pathologist.

Lawyer David Robins, who represents Mullins-Johnson, said yesterday his client is pleased the case is finally coming to an end.

Pipeline critics corner Clinton over Keystone controversy

'We are inclined to sign off on it,' she says Oregon's Democrat senator and Nebraska's Republican senator seek clarification on her comments

Two U.S. senators are demanding an explanation from U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, who last week suggested she was "inclined to" approve the controversial Keystone XL crude oil pipeline.

At a speaking engagement in San Francisco last Friday, Clinton was challenged on the State Department's decision to approve Enbridge Inc.'s Alberta Clipper pipeline, which ships oilsands crude to Wisconsin. Construction wrapped up on Alberta Clipper this spring.

Clinton responded by saying a decision had yet to be made on another pipeline, presumably referring to a $7-billion US extension to rival TransCanada Corp.'s Keystone system, which is currently under review. "We've not yet signed off on it. But we are inclined to do so, and we are for several reasons," Clinton said last Friday.

She said the United States would either be dependent on "dirty oil" from the oilsands or from the Gulf of Mexico — the site of the worst oil spill in U.S. history — until the country "gets its act together" on renewable energy.

State Department spokesperson Mark Toner said Thursday that Clinton's comments stand.

"We need to, frankly ... find energy sources in other areas as well, be they clean or dirty," he said.

Yesterday, Mike Johanns, a Republican senator from Nebraska, and Jeff Merkley, a Democratic senator from Oregon, said Clinton must clarify what she said during a question-and-answer session at the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

Nebraska is one of six U.S. states Keystone XL would traverse on its way to the Texas coast, where numerous refineries are hungry for Canadian heavy crude.

Nebraska Gov. Dave Heineman last week wrote to Clinton, expressing concern that the Ogallala Aquifer — a key water source for the region — could be contaminated if a leak were to occur.

Keystone XL needs the approval of the State Department since the pipeline would cross the Canada-U.S. border.

TransCanada is hoping to get a Presidential Permit giving the project a green light some time early next year, said company spokesperson Terry Cunha. He said TransCanada will go to great lengths to make sure the Ogallala Aquifer is protected.

Feds to cover tab for new drug law

Bill S-10 would send traffickers and producers to jail immediately

Correctional Services Canada says it has no idea what mandatory minimum sentences for drug crimes will do to the prison system.

But Commissioner Don Head told a Senate committee the government has agreed to cover off the costs of implementing the new bill.

ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Don Head

Bill S-10 is the third time the Conservatives have tried to get a law in place that would see traffickers and producers sent immediately to prison, even those convicted of growing only six marijuana plants.

But Head told the Senate committee studying the bill there isn't enough information to figure out whether the bill would have a deterrent effect or merely swell prison populations.

Part of the new bill will also impose mandatory minimums for those caught trying to sell drugs behind bars.

U.S. man jailed in Iran returns home

A California businessman who spent more than two years in an Iranian prison after being accused of passing money to a rebel group returned home Thursday.

Reza Taghavi, 71, arrived at Los Angeles International Airport at about 7 p.m. with his attorney, former U.S. diplomat Pierre Prosper, who won Taghavi's release after talks with Iranian envoys.

In halting English, Taghavi told reporters: "I'm glad that I'm back to the United States in my home now ... I'm glad that I'm here and hope everything can be all right from now on," he added.

Taghavi, a retired Orange County businessman who regularly visits his native Iran, was jailed on allegations that he passed $200 to someone suspected of links to a rebel group Taghavi was never charged and denies knowingly supporting the faction.

Chavez 'on offensive'

Strengthening ties with Syria 'to accelerate the fall of (U.S.) imperialist hegemony' Venezuela and Syria sign several economic agreements

On the Mideast leg of an international tour, Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez said yesterday that he and his Syrian counterpart are "on the offensive" against Western imperialism.

The trip underscores the forces that complicate Washington's battle for influence in Syria, which is under U.S. sanctions because the State Department considers it a sponsor of terrorism.

Despite U.S. outreach, Syria has remained close to Iran and the militant groups Hamas and Hezbollah, while building ties with Venezuela.

Still, Syria stands to gain from improved ties with Washington, which could boost the country's struggling economy and end the sanctions

That's one big puddle

When NASA blasted a hole in the moon last year in search of water, scientists figured there would be a splash. They just didn't know how big.

Now new results from the Hollywood-esque moonshot reveal lots of water in a crater where the sun never shines — 41 gallons of ice and vapour.

That may not sound like much — it's what a typical washing machine uses for a load — but it's almost twice as much as researchers had initially measured and more than they ever expected to find.

The estimate represents only what scientists can see from the debris plume that was kicked up from the high-speed crash near the south pole by a NASA spacecraft on Oct. 9, 2009.

Proof that the moon is not a dry, desolate world offers hope for a possible future astronaut outpost where water on site could be used for drinking or making rocket fuel. But the scientists' excitement is tempered by the reality that there's no plan to land on the moon anytime soon.

WHAT'S HIDING IN THE CURRENCY WAR

Other people's money

DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

Yesterday, I paid $2.99 US to download an episode of Entourage on iTunes. Over a year ago, my credit card bill would have shown a charge of $3.88. The Canadian dollar was worth less then. Today, my bill will be around $2.99. The loonie is almost in pair with the U.S. dollar.

When our currency appreciates compared with other currencies, we become richer. It's as if we all suddenly got raises.

Politicians, though, believe the opposite. Right now, the world's governments are launching a "currency war." They're printing tons of money in the hope that it will lose value relative to their neighbours' currencies. It's the most ridiculous war, where winning means shooting oneself in the foot.

Why? According to the media, governments want to help their exporters. When you sell in Canadian dollars and that dollar falls, your product becomes less expensive — and more attractive — for foreign buyers. This might be a plausible explanation for certain countries like China, whose economies are heavily dependent on exports. (Although several other countries, like Germany and Switzerland have demonstrated that it's possible to succeed on the international market even with a strong currency.)

"It's the most ridiculous war, where winning means shooting oneself in the foot."

But for several western countries, the real explanation is to be found elsewhere. In the United States for example, exports make up only 12 per cent of GDP. Why impoverish the population for so little? Here's a hint: If tomorrow morning the American government confiscated every dollar held by the entire population, it would still need $12 trillion more to repay all of its debts and honour its promises to future retirees, according to David Walker, the country's former comptroller general.

The U.S. government is carrying a gigantic debt that it will never reimburse. But why go under when it just needs to reduce the value of the American dollar by printing a ton of money — what the media refer to as "quantitative easing" — and a portion of its debt will disappear as if by magic!

When you reduce the value of what you owe, you reduce your debt.

This solution would also help Japan, the most indebted country on the planet. And Great Britain, which is getting bogged down in deficits.

Listening to our leaders, you'd think we could become richer by being poorer, by underselling the fruits of our labours.

And so we have a "currency war." But underneath this absurd rhetoric, another motive hides: Several governments will try, in the coming years, to go bankrupt on the sly.

Budget deficit tricky: Report

Canada's budget watchdog says the current budget deficit may be relatively smaller than what Ottawa faced in the 1990s, but it's going to be harder to eliminate.

Oil industry players have been sniffing around the landmark Boreal Forest Agreement between industry and environmental groups, says one of the agreement's architects.

Avrim Lazar, who heads the Forest Products Association of Canada, says he's fielded inquiries from senior civil servants, executives and oil industry associations about how the forest industry got together with its one-time adversaries. The forest agreement was signed in May between the forest companies and a coalition of environmental groups who had fought the industry bitterly for decades, and boycotted their products.

Benefits on bumpy ride

Watchdog reports dive Separate analysis paints a brighter picture

The health of some 400 Canadian defined-benefit plans deteriorated in the first half of the year, the federal pension watchdog said Thursday.

The average solvency ratio for the plans fell to an estimated 87 per cent as of the end of June, according to a semi-annual report from the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions. That means the plans only had 87 cents worth of assets for every dollar of pension liability at that date, on average.

"The deterioration in the estimated ratio was largely due to weak pension fund returns during the first half of the year," said Judy Cameron, managing director of OSFI's private pension plans division.

A separate report released Thursday found Canadian pension fund assets improved in the third quarter — lifted by 7.3 per cent on global market rallies in September, according to a RBC Dexia survey of Canadian pension plans.

Number receiving EI stagnant

Statistics Canada reports 671,200 people received regular Employment Insurance benefits, virtually unchanged from July.

The agency says the number of beneficiaries in July and August eased back to March levels, after rising slightly during the second quarter of the year.

But the number has fallen by 158,100 since peaking in June 2009.

Meanwhile, the number of initial and renewal claims increased by 8,100 from July to 258,700.

The number of claims has been trending upward since March, increasing by an average of 5,700 a month.

The number of claims received increased in all provinces in August, except for Manitoba and Alberta, where there were slight declines.

Chevron files drill application

Chevron plans to file application to drill soon for deepwater Gulf fields.

Chevron Corp. may be one of the first companies to ask permission to drill new wells in the Gulf of Mexico since the moratorium was lifted.

The San Ramon, Calif., oil giant said Thursday it plans to file an application for drilling permits in the next several days for various deepwater projects in the Gulf. The government says it hasn't received any new applications for drilling permits since the Interior Department lifted the ban earlier this month. A Chevron spokesman didn't specify which projects would be included in the application. But the company said it will devote $7.5 billion US toward two new fields off the Louisiana coast.

5 MINUTES WITH: YANN MARTEL

Award-winning Canadian author Yann Martel is in town this week and speaking at the 23rd Vancouver International Writers and Readers Festival. Martel is best known for his novel Life Of Pi. His newest book, Beatrice and Virgil, is in stores now. Martel sat down with Metro Vancouver on Thursday afternoon to talk about his work.

What is it like to win the Man Booker Prize for Life Of Pi?
It was wonderful. You don't write for money, you don't write for prizes, you write to express yourself. Having done that, it was wonderful to be recognized, to meet readers and to win prizes. I'm as delighted to have won the Booker Prize as I was years earlier to have won the Journey Prize — a local Canadian prize.

How did winning the Man Booker Prize change your life, or the way you write?
What it's done is made my life more complicated. (There are) more opportunities, more emails, more (chances) to go to festivals, to go to book launches. But that's all external. On the inside (I'm) still the same person.

What brings you to Vancouver?
I was invited to (the writers festival) and it's a pleasure to be here. It's a lovely city, a stunning setting. It's nice to interact with readers. It's always a delight to visit Vancouver.

Why do you think festivals like this are valuable?
It's nice to make the connection between art and artists. People love reading, but it's also sometimes nice to meet the mind behind the book. I happen to enjoy it because I like travelling, it's a pleasure meeting readers. It's nice to engage with them. It's nice to (step away from writing) and actually meet the people who pick up your books and read them.

What's the best advice you could give to aspiring writers?
You have to read, you have to write, you have to rewrite. I'd give the Buddhist advice of passionate detachment. You have to throw everything you have at (your writing) but you also have to be able to detach yourself, you have to be able to let go. If you want to write, write. It's important to express yourself. There's no shame in trying and failing, the pity would be to not try at all.

Swing fever spreading

Worth mentioning

TORONTO. Swing is making a comeback and it's not just the infectious rhythm and foot-stomping moves drawing the crowds. The sense of community created by the dance is proving even more of a lure as a young set brings an old jig back into style.

The style of dance, and the face-time it offers in an increasingly digitized world, is something that's appealing even to the high school crowd.

"It has that youthful exuberance to it," says Matt Lam, a 24-year-old physics graduate student, who is also president of the UBC Swing Kids. He says he's seen teens as young as 16 come out to events put on by his campus club.

Swing dancing actually refers to a group of dances that developed in the 1920s alongside the swing style of jazz. The dances range from the traditional foot-stamping Lindy Hop to the body-hugging Balboa.

With university swing clubs cropping up and social dances offered in most major cities, swing fever is catching. The rise of popular television dance shows is also helping to raise the profile of swing.

While swingers dance with a partner, they don't have to bring one. Most people show up alone but don't stay that way for long. THE CANADIAN PRESS

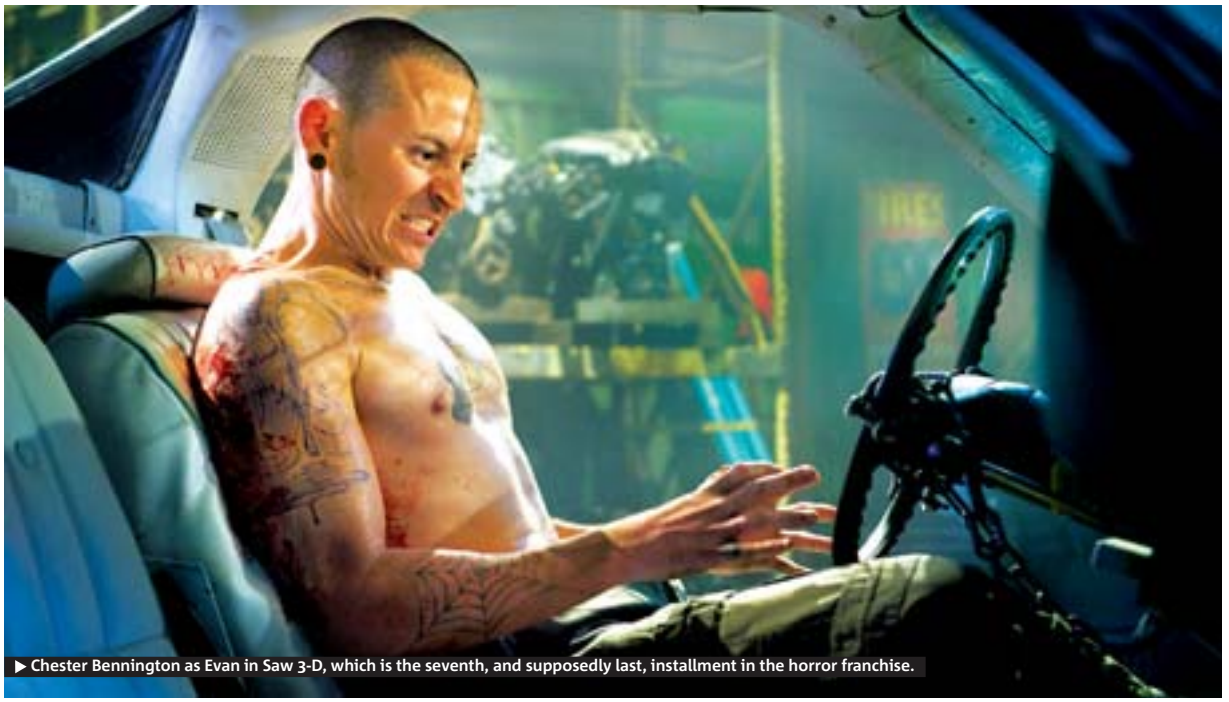
- Director and long-time editor of horror franchise brought back for seventh film
- Final Saw film looks to give fans one last look into the mad world of Jigsaw and his disciples



▶ Chester Bennington as Evan in Saw 3-D, which is the seventh, and supposedly last, installment in the horror franchise.

Saw sharpened for final cut

CHRIS ALEXANDER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Last year, for the first time since the film series began, a Saw feature failed to own the box office on Halloween. Funnier still was that Saw 6 was one of the best entries in the series — a deft thriller whose ample gore was matched by slick directorial style and a witty, clever script.

Shame then, that the viral juggernaut Paranormal Activity trumped it on its opening weekend, sending director (and long time series editor) Kevin Greutert packing.

But when Greutert got the call from Paramount pictures to helm Paranormal Activity 2, Saw studio Lions Gate and production company Twisted Pictures sneered and used a contractual loophole to literally drag GreUtert back to film Saw 3-D, the seventh and supposedly final entry.

"This has been a hard year," says Gruetert who had to not only abort plans to make PA2 but also move back to Toronto from his native LA.

"But at the end of the day, I didn't want to let the fans down. I think we really made a film that continues the story but stands alone. I'm ultimately proud of this one."

Saw 3-D continues and climaxes the ongoing story of long dead anti-serial killer Jigsaw (Tobin Bell) whose disciples continue to use devious, flesh ripping death traps to teach sinners lessons that are often painful and fatal. And all of this mayhem literally jumps off the screen in digital 3-D.

"Needless to say there are plenty of 'comin at ya' moments," notes the talented filmmaker who aims for not only gore but psychological frissons in his work.

"There's also tons of blood. We have an obligation to the hardcore horror fans to do that. It looks pretty damn great in 3-D, I must say. After the sixth film, I certainly tried to top myself."

THE DIFFERING TAKES ON THE AFTERLIFE

In Focus

RICHARD CROUSE

Clint Eastwood's latest film, Hereafter, concerns itself with what happens once you have, as John Cleese might say, "shuffled off this mortal coil." In the film a woman has a near death experience, beginning her walk into a bright light surrounded by misty figures making a similar journey into that great goodnight. That's just the most recent cinematic vision of what happens after death, but there are many more, some played for laughs, sometimes for drama and now and then for comfort.

In Deconstructing Harry, Woody Allen goes for the joke, taking the viewer on an elevator ride through hell's nine floors, each reserved for a different kind of sinner. Best line? "Floor 7: the media. Sorry, that floor is all filled up."

Tim Burton also had some fun with the afterlife in Beetlejuice. Alec Baldwin and Geena Davis get tips on how to haunt their old house in a book titled Handbook for the Recently Deceased. Best line? "We're not completely helpless, Barbara," says Adam (Baldwin). "I've been reading that book and there's a word for people in our situation: ghosts."

Taking the hereafter a bit more seriously is The Rapture which sees Mimi Rogers almost reunited with her dearly departed daughter. This version of Heaven is much starker than the usual sweetness and light paradise seen on film; there's no Pearly Gates or fluffy clouds with angels snacking on Philadelphia Cream Cheese. For that version check out the opening minutes of the classic Rodgers and Hammerstein musical Carousel. The story of a dead carnival worker who asks for permission to be sent back to earth for one day to make amends for mistakes he made in life starts with a glittering vision of heaven, complete with sparkling stars. Best heavenly quote? "Here there is no time; this is the beginning and the end."

What Dreams May Come, the 1998 film about a man who leaves heaven to search hell for his wife paints heaven as a place that, as Roger Ebert noted, seems "cheerfully assembled from the storage rooms of images we keep in our minds: Renaissance art, the pre-Raphaelites, greeting cards, angel kitsch." The heaven in this film is a wonderful place "big enough for everyone to have their own private universe."

On the flipside is the movie's vision of hell as a surreal, dark place. Best quote: "Hell is for those who don't know they're dead."

Finding the right roles

Arterton looks for intriguing films with good characters Brit getting away from action roles

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Since 1904 London's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) has almost single handedly kept the British actor's union flush with members. John Gielgud, Anthony Hopkins and Kenneth Branagh are just a fraction of the school's famous alumni. More recently Gemma Arterton, star of this weekend's Tamara Drewe, studied there before becoming Britain's latest "It Girl."

"I left RADA three years ago and never expected I would have a film career," she says. "I always thought I would do theatre, and then it happened and I said, 'Yes, yes, yes' to every job without thinking about it.

"You are grateful that you're being considered and don't want to seem rude by turning them down. As a Brit we tend to think like that."

Among the roles Arterton said yes to are Quantum of Solace Bond girl Strawberry Fields and leads in green screen blockbusters Prince of Persia and Clash of the Titans. High profile for sure, but not exactly challenging for the recent graduate.

"This year I have been able to think about what I want," she says. "I've always just wanted to act and do things that are interesting and exciting. So now I have learned that the only power I have as an actress is the power of choice.

"I'm taking my time and reading scripts thoroughly. It doesn't matter if it is big or small, or whether I have a large part or a small part and that is serving me well. And those films that I did like Tamara Drewe and The Disappearance of Alice Creed have actually transformed my career from here on. It's going to be much more eclectic, intriguing films rather than all out action movies."

In that vein she recently played the decidedly non-glamorous lead in Alice Creed and the manipulative Tamara Drewe, a successful columnist who stirs things up in her childhood village in rural Dorset.

"They are not particularly attractive roles in that Tamara Drewe is kind of a sex symbol but underneath it all she is an ugly character and isn't necessarily appealing or someone you'd want to be with," she says. "For me, as an actor, that is exciting because I want to work out why people who aren't me, do things.

"The same with Alice Creed. She's full-on, visceral and dirty inside and that, to me, is very attractive when I'm looking for a role."

"I have learned that the only power I have as an actress is the power of choice"
GEMMA ARTERTON

Fake nose did its job

Gemma Arterton's title character in Tamara Drewe returns to her hometown after reinventing herself thanks in large part to a nose-job, which of course meant some quality time in the makeup chair. And it turns out the prosthetic nose the beautiful 24-year-old wore was plenty convincing.

"I remember the first day that I had the nose on, I went on set and tested it out to see what people's reaction would be," she says. "I went up to one of the actors in it and I said, 'Morning!' And they glared at me and walked off."

Always a team player, Arterton refuses to divulge the identity of the co-star in question. "I'm not telling," she says. "He'd feel very bad."

Score misses the goal

Score: A Hockey Musical
Genre: Comedy/Musical
Director: Michael McGowan
Stars: Olivia Newton-John, Noah Reid, Marc Jordan

We already have Wayne Gretzky Unoaked Chardonnay, which, according to the winery features soft "notes of white peach and pear" so do we really need a cinematic hockey tribute featuring some not-so-soft musical notes?

Director Michael McGowan thought so and the result is a parody of hockey violence set to a soundtrack that rhymes baloney with Zamboni. All that's missing is Don Cherry.

The story of a peace loving hockey prodigy's assimilation into the sport's violent world has its heart in the right place, but what could have been a surreal Glee-like experience unfortunately — to mix sports metaphors — doesn't hit a home run.

acting, not enough

Conviction
Genre: Drama
Director: Tony Goldwyn
Stars: Hilary Swank, Sam Rockwell
●●½
You cannot deny that Conviction is a compelling tale. Based on the true story of Betty Anne Waters, a Massachusetts woman who believed so strongly her incarcerated brother was innocent of murder, she became a lawyer with the sole purpose of freeing the sibling. That's pretty impressive.

On the big screen however, Conviction is much less buoyant than it should be. Sure, it is certainly given some gravitas with thanks to Hilary Swank and especially Sam Rockwell who turns in a stunning performance as the somewhat reckless jailbird. Beyond their performances though, Conviction rarely rises above the level of an impressive Law & Order episode. ● STEVE GOW

Tales From The Golden Age
Genre: Comedy
Director: Cristian Mungiu and others
Stars: Vlad Ivanov, Tania Popa
●●●½
The Nicolae Ceaușescu-era in Romania's history is a dark one and Cristian Mungiu aims to prove it — but not all alone.

The award-winning filmmaker (4 Months, 3 Weeks & 2 Days) enlisted four other directors (beside himself) to each tell a quirky urban tale from the era in this overloaded omnibus about living under the suppressive regime.

At over two hours, it gets tiring but such absurd stories as a policeman trying to quietly gas a pig in his tiny apartment is pure entertainment.

SYTYCD makeup tips

Learn how the show's dancers look so perfect

For the past few weeks we've watched So You Think You Can Dance Canada's aspiring dancers leap, flip and sweat their way to the final four — all while looking perfect.

How do they keep themselves looking composed while performing their numbers? Metro asked SYTYCD Canada's makeup artist Lynne Ryan for her tips on the best way to get your makeup to stay on:

Lynne Ryan in action.

SKIN CARE
You always want to make sure that the skin is well hydrated and protected with a product with an SPF.

EXFOLIATE
Add some kind of exfoliation regime to the skin. This will greatly improve the skin's overall texture and [improve] makeup's lasting power.

PEEL
Use a gommage (non-chemical face peel), a peeling mask or a very fine scrub every second day depending on your skin type. This will help to remove dead skin and allow the makeup to sit evenly.

MOISTURIZE
Before applying any other products, add a lightweight moisturizer in the summer and heavier lotion for the winter months. If mixed with a small amount of primer, it will help lock in moisture.

FOUNDATION
Foundation is best applied with a brush instead of fingers as it will help make your product last longer and lets you get into hard to reach areas. A finishing powder ... helps set the foundation. METRO

HASSAN AMMAR/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Rapper K'naan

For K'naan there's no place like home

Somalian-born K'naan says he's still tied to his country in heart, spirit and, most of all, music

Breakout rapper K'naan, who is on tour promoting his latest album, Troubadour, talked in a recent interview about Somalia's influence on his work.

Is it ever overwhelming being the voice of Somalia?
It's only overwhelming when I pause to think about it. But subconsciously it's just something that must be done. I don't really have the time to be overwhelmed by something that must be done ... (though) sometimes I'd rather just make music and not really have to come to an entire people's defence.

Did you ever think about just rapping and perhaps downplaying your Somalian connection?
I didn't set out to represent anything, I set out to fix my own problems. By writing those things in a sense it became that I'm writing about Somalia, because there's no way to represent my life in an honest way without the conflicts in Somalia.

Do you feel that the world has forgotten about Somalia?
I understand why. I understand the silence. The difference between early '90s and now is that Somalia broke America's heart in the '90s, that's literally what happened. After Somalia, it's the reason why America did not go in to mediate in Rwanda. The result is a million people died.

What are your hopes for Somalia?
Somalia's scenario is that it's not good left alone, and it's even worse intervened. That's the dilemma of Somalia, because we do not accept foreign intervention ... it doesn't seem like we can fix our own problems either.

How do you instil Somalia in your two young boys since you aren't living there?
It's kind of hard to do that. They learn important values from me and their mom (who is Somalian) ... which I think is culture. But I think to get the complete package, to get the complete feeling, they'd have to live in Somalia, and at some point I hope they can.

Is it still hard for you to break into the American hip-hop scene because you're not rapping about rims?
It's easier now but it's still hard. It's easier now because Jay-Z likes me (laughs) and Nas calls me great on YouTube videos. ... But sometimes I'm very tempted ... to take on that world in that language, in the language of the streets. ... Some artists actually really want me to do that.

Phoenix rising?

CHRIS PIZZELLO/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Thomas Mars of Phoenix

Phoenix fans aren't alone in wondering how the French new-wave rockers will follow their breakthrough 2009 album Wolfgang Amadeus Phoenix.

The band has no idea what their next record will sound like, either.

"No, no, no, no, no — we have zero seconds of new music," guitarist Laurent Brancowitz said in a recent telephone interview from Paris.

"We have always worked this way. ... It's really the way we've always done it. When we write on tour, it's always very bad.

"You can believe it, trust me. But also, an album, for us, it has to reflect the very precise period of time in our lives."

Well, if that's the case, one might expect the new music the band eventually conjures up to be pretty upbeat.

After nearly a decade of recording, the quartet finally broke through with their most recent collection of nimble, super-svelte pop tunes.

On the strength of a crackerjack performance on Saturday Night Live and the flawless singles 1901 and Lisztomania, Phoenix not only earned widespread critical acclaim — landing in the top 10 of year-end album lists from Time, Rolling Stone, Spin and Pitchfork — but also won a Grammy Award for best alternative album.

Now, Phoenix is in the last phase of a nearly 18-month victory lap, with a show tonight in Montreal and on Friday in Toronto following a performance at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Of course, that sort of success also breeds lofty expectations for the band's next move. But Brancowitz says the group doesn't feel slowed by the weight of external pressure.

"To tell you the truth, no," he said. "Because the last album we did, really, we thought it was a bizarre album that nobody would like. So I think we'll try to make an even weirder album, in our opinion, and maybe it's going to be a bigger success."

"Do you know what I mean? It's really when we thought that we made it the most personal and strange, bizarre record, that it reached the most people. So, for us, it's a good sign to do it this way."

"So it's no pressure. Well I mean, there's lots of pressure, but it's the pressure with ourselves."

I CROSS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

When people ask what I do at ExploreMusic.com, my answer is "I listen to all the bad music so you don't have to."

Every week, people from all over the world send dozens of CDs, 7-inch singles, MP3s and links to MySpace, Band Camp, Facebook and SoundCloud, all hoping to be featured on the website and the national radio show. Here are a few recent standouts that I highly recommend.

Exit Calm/Exit Calm: Four men from Yorkshire who channel the early floaty, fuzzy sounds of the Verve with ease. Their self-titled debut already has a place on my year-end Top Ten list.

Delphic/Acolyte: I've been evangelizing about this Manchester band since last Christmas and, finally, their debut record is available in North America. It's slinky and sophisticated indie-dance music with DNA stolen from both New Order and Coldplay.

Tamaryn/The Waves: This San Francisco duo is on a number of hipster radars. Hypnotic layers of guitar-pop that straddles the line between old 4AD recordings and modern shoegaze.

Deerhunter/Halcyon Digest: There were high expectations for Bradford Cox's Atlanta-based band — and they've met most of them with an album that took just two weeks to record. Halcyon Digest might just be the best American indie record of the year.

Hollerado/Record in a Bag: Four-piece indie outfit from Manotick near Ottawa who really seem to get it. Check out their one-take video for Americanarama on YouTube.

Maximum Balloon/Maximum Balloon: Electro indie-pop created by TV on the Radio's Dave Sitek that would have sounded too far out of place in 1984 as an opening act for either Prince or the Talking Heads. In fact, David Byrne is on the record.

Smoke Fairies/Through Low Light and Trees: English female duo that sings dark English blues-folk that sounds almost medieval at times. I can imagine them opening for Shakespeare at the Globe.

Rihanna under Jay-Z umbrella

Grammy-winning pop singer Rihanna has parted ways with manager Marc Jordan and is now being managed by Jay-Z's Roc Nation Management.

Rihanna said in a statement that she's "so excited to take this next step in my career." The 22-year-old is also launching a new company called Rihanna Entertainment, which will merge all of her businesses, including music, film, fragrance and fashion.

She plans to release her fifth CD, Loud, on Nov. 16.

What's Glee?

- Bryan Adams wants to know
- Says he never denied permission for the show to use his songs

THE CANADIAN PRESS/MARK BAKER

▶ Bryan Adams performing in Vancouver during the opening ceremonies for the 2010 Olympics.

Bryan Adams says that contrary to what the cast and creative team behind Glee have said, he didn't prevent the popular show from using one of his songs — in fact, he doesn't even know what Glee is.

The show's creator Ryan Murphy, and Canadian star Cory Monteith, have both said in interviews that Adams was among a select few artists to reject the smash hit show from using one of his songs.

Adams dismissed that notion emphatically in an interview yesterday.

"People kept saying things like: 'You turned them down,'" Adams said on the line from Switzerland.

"I never even heard from them! I don't even know what Glee is! Glee is when I wake up in the morning, OK? That's glee, all right?"

So, the Canadian rocker would be amenable to the Fox show covering one of his classic tunes?

"Thrilled," he said. "Yeah, do it."

It was during the Paleyfest media conference that Murphy told a panel that Adams and Coldplay were two prominent acts to turn down the show, which became a sensation during its first season for exuberant setpieces based around popular hit tunes sung by the show's cast.

The makers of Glee reportedly hoped Adams would license his 1991 hit (Everything I Do) I Do It For You.

Adams, who will be in Toronto this weekend to record a live appearance for Bravo's Bryan Adams at the Concert Hall special, said he never heard anything about it.

"If that's the truth, they certainly never spoke to me," he said.

Questions arise over hospital visit

Jordan Bratman and Christina Aguilera.

Just days before she announced her split from husband Jordan Bratman, Christina Aguilera reportedly showed up at a hospital emergency room nursing a nasty mouth injury, according to Radar Online.

"Christina was bleeding from her mouth and had a bit of a busted lip," says a source who saw the couple at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

"Jordan told the nurses she had fallen down. Shortly after they arrived to Cedars, Christina's private surgeon arrived to put a few stitches in her lip." METRO

Lindsay Lohan

Lohans worried over court

Today is Lindsay Lohan's big day in court, and she could reportedly be headed back to jail for up to a year, according to Radar Online.

"The fact that (Judge Elden Fox) ordered Lindsay to appear, even though she is currently in rehab and not planning to fight the probation violation, has Lindsay's legal team very, very, concerned," a source says.

Lohan's camp is reportedly preparing for the worst.

"I think everyone close to her would like to see her go back to rehab, but there's an overwhelming feeling that something is going to happen to Lindsay if she doesn't go away for a long time, so they're reconciling with the fact that she could go to jail for a while," a source says. "People are scared."

Elton John has urged Lindsay Lohan to swap pampering rehab centres for a tough boot camp treatment course — because the troubled actress needs serious professional help with her problems.

Jackson's dad looking for big cash

IT'S SO NICE TO SEE HIM GETTING OVER HIS GRIEF Joe Jackson is reportedly looking to get between $10 million and $500 million in compensation from the wrongful death suit against Conrad Murray, the doctor for his late son, Michael Jackson, according to TMZ.

Joe believes the amount is in "the realistic range of provable damages," according to sources.

"Joe says 20 per cent of his damages are for loss of support, 40 per cent are for emotional distress and 40 per cent are for 'loss of comfort, aid, society and companionship,'" a source tells the website. METRO

ANYONE ELSE GET THE SENSE PETA IS JUST A BUNCH OF BORED PEOPLE ALWAYS LOOKING FOR A FIGHT? Victoria Beckham has come under criticism from PETA for using crocodile and lizard skin and calf leather in her new line of handbags, but the fashionista isn't taking the criticism lying down.

"Everyone is entitled to personal opinion and choice, but as with all Victoria Beckham products, the handbags are made to the highest quality and design," a rep for her line says, according to Hollyscoop.

"These skins sit strictly within the (Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species) regulations, and are monitored at every step of production. The skins are farmed in America under very tight guidelines." METRO

Halloween

Potlucks for Halloween great for the kids

Here are some tips to help you plan a successful and enjoyable children's Halloween party:

- Share the expense and stress of hosting a party with friends and family. A progressive or potluck party distributes the work and expense evenly among all.
- Since Halloween is on a Sunday this year, plan a party on the eve of the big night.
- Bake homemade treats in lieu of store-bought Halloween cupcakes, cookies and cakes.

The alluring aroma of the food business

Dedication? Check. Sound business plan? Check. With some effort and some luck your upstart catering biz can flourish

JOAN CHANG
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

It's been thirty years since Vancouver catering company The Lazy Gourmet started. People would bring in their own dishes, they'd get filled with food and you'd pass it off as your own. Since then the Lazy Gourmet team has done it all, even cooked for members of the British government during the Olympic Games.

They're the exception. According to David Martin, 50 per cent of new food ventures fail within the first year. Martin is the director of the Ted Rogers School of Hospitality and Tourism Management at Ryerson University in Toronto and he knows this all too well.

In Vancouver:

The Lazy Gourmet lazygourmet.ca: This 30-year-old company has done everything from dinner parties to feeding the British government during the 2010 Olympics. General manager Kevin Mazzone credits much success to their website. "People think of food as something that's very archaic but it is something that's very artistic. You don't think of (food) as connected to technology but ... technology is what it's about and to engage with people before the event."

"There's a mystique about it, a lot of people think it's great, they love people and they love to cook. People come to us for advice and the first thing I say is, 'Do you have a business plan? How are you going to get your customers?' Few think about that."

Martin says there are certain elements that prospective caterers must consider before taking the plunge.

"'What do you want it to become? Work with that and say, 'what are the milestones to success? What's my strength and what are the opportunities in the marketplace?' If you take a look at the total package, you need to identify what you need to overcome and figure out what you need to do overcome that."

You'll learn a lot speaking to the caterers themselves. Brenda Dutton has been running Absolutely Edibles in Edmonton for 11 years. She's stuck to her philosophy of hard work and quality control. "We only take so many event per day and we turn down business because being greedy, you compromise your values, you stop paying attention to what's going out the door."

General manager of The Lazy Gourmet Kevin Mazzone says ultimately it's about the reputation you build for yourself. "The food business is very difficult. Really having that trust in our name ... people just keep coming back."

▶ There is a 'mystique' about the food industry, it's something many people aspire to. But it's not easy. It takes skill, dedication and a bit of luck to succeed.

Chili pepper jelly great for entertaining

This recipe for spicy-sweet chili pepper jelly is easy and versatile. Pam Corbin, author of The River Cottage Preserves Handbook, suggests using whichever variety of chili you prefer — hot, fruity habeneros; rich, mild poblanos; or searing hot jalapenos.

Chili Pepper Freezer Jelly
Preparation:

1. In a large saucepan over medium, combine bell peppers, jalapenos, ginger and vinegar. Bring to a simmer, then add sugar, lime juice and salt. Cook, stirring, until mixture reaches a boil. Boil for 4 to 6 minutes, then remove from heat and let cool for 5 minutes.
2. Sprinkle fruit pectin over jam and stir in. Divide jam among freezer-safe jars with lids. Tightly seal jars, then let cool for 30 minutes.

Phillies stave off elimination

Halladay wins in rematch with Lincecum ◗ Giants still lead series 3-2

Doc got the best of The Freak in a rematch of aces.

Roy Halladay pitched through a groin pull, outduelling Tim Lincecum and keeping the Philadelphia Phillies alive in the NL championship series with a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants in the NL championship series Thursday night.

Jayson Werth's solo homer in the ninth quieted the raucous sellout crowd of 43,713, and many fans began making for the exits even before Philadelphia pulled within 3-2 in the best-of-seven series.

Halladay's bunt — which appeared to be foul — helped spark a three-run third inning, when Shane Victorino drove in the first of two runs that scored on a fielding error by first baseman Aubrey Huff.

"I don't know," Halladay said of the bunt. "It happened so quick."

Placido Polanco followed with an RBI single, and the two-time reigning NL champions forced a Game 6 back home in Citizens Bank Park on Saturday and another cross-country trip. Jonathan Sanchez starts for the Giants against Roy Oswalt, who is 10-0 in 12 starts in Philly this year.

"We'll be ready to play," Werth said.

Halladay improved to 2-1 with a 2.45 ERA in three post-season starts this year, doing it despite a leg injury.

"Second inning, Halladay, he had a mild groin pull, his right groin," Phillies manager Charlie Manuel said.

"Of course, he stayed in there. He was determined he was going to stay in there."

Philadelphia put San Francisco's celebration on hold, taking this matchup of Cy Young Award winners after Lincecum came out on top in the opener.

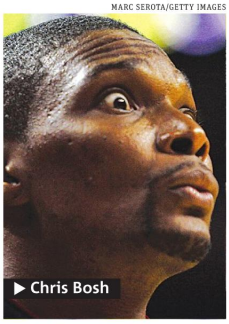
Bosh still plays a role in Raptors' ticket promos

MARC SEROTA/GETTY IMAGES



▶ Chris Bosh

Chris Bosh has left Toronto but the Raptors are still using their former all-star forward to sell tickets.

The team is promoting 11-game ticket packages that include a choice of the Miami Heat's two trips to Toronto — Feb. 16 and April 13.

The ad campaign gives the impression of a showdown between the Heat and Raptors.

In the ad, the Heat are represented by a star-studded threesome of Bosh, LeBron James and Dwyane Wade. The three Raptors are far-from-fierce-looking youngsters DeMar DeRozan and Sonny Weems and the underachieving Andrea Bargnani.

Bosh was the face of the Toronto franchise before joining the Miami Heat this past summer after seven seasons.

By reporting Oct. 29, Jackson will be able to serve a three-game, team-imposed suspension on the roster exempt list, then play in the final six games to accrue his sixth season toward unrestricted free agency.

JET LAG & SPORTS CULTURE SHOCK

The bizarre odyssey to India and the Commonwealth Games of New Delhi are over by a week — everyone is safely home or onto the next gig.

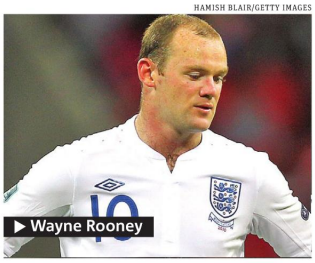
Herein lies the culture shock that sport has come to embody. Instead of marvelling at hordes of athletes of all shapes and sizes obsessed with performing in adverse conditions and with pride on the line, the focus has turned to a few petulant professionals who dominate our attention because of the complaining they do and the cheating they engage in.

What's up with Wayne Rooney? Since when does a player hold a great club like Manchester United for ransom because it won't buy the most expensive stars in the galaxy of international soccer? Rooney won't play because he doesn't get all the new toys for his sandbox. It reeks of the spoiled child who pouts in the corner when there aren't enough presents under the Christmas tree.

Is that what sport has become? You can't have a winner unless you buy it?

HAMISH BLAIR/GETTY IMAGES



▶ Wayne Rooney

Maybe Rooney should get on with the task of pulling up his socks and earning the millions he's paid in order to make Manchester United a champion again. Perhaps he should lead by example and employ his enormous gifts that make him one of the world's best footballers in order to make an actual difference on the field of play.

Why do NFL players complain because they can't be headhunters anymore?

A Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker is whining because the league fined him for trying to rip someone's head off. James Harrison, a highly decorated player, threatened to retire because the NFL is attempting to change the culture of cheating. He said he can't be as effective and aggressive without going after helmets.

Who is he kidding?

The Rugby Sevens were ferocious in India. There was full-speed, open-field tackling that was both spectacular and thrilling. The New Zealanders, all clad in menacing black, were plenty aggressive as they demolished their opponents without the benefit of padding.

And, oh yeah, they never went for the head ... never.

Maybe it's simply a case of reverse culture shock, but modern professional sport has a different hue when you look at it through jet-lagged eyes.

It seems like it's less about what happens on the field of play than off it.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Your confidence may be high right now but the moment you start to believe that nothing can possibly go wrong is the moment when it most likely will.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 The more you want something to happen the more likely it is you will overreach yourself and make the kind of mistake that you usually go out of your way to avoid. Don't be too eager today. Let life come to you.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Even if you are the kind of Cancerian who rarely strays far from home you will be on the move today. Where you go remains to be seen but make sure that you, and you alone, set the travel agenda.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 It's not like you to avoid reality but it seems you want nothing more at the moment than to lose yourself in daydreams. And why not?

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Someone seems to have got it into their head that you will grant any favor they ask of you. It would be nice if you were in a position to do so but you're not and you need to avail them of that fact quickly.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Resist the urge to rush things, especially on the work front where you won't do your reputation much good if you cut corners and make mistakes as a consequence.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Mars, planet of ego, squares up to Neptune, planet of deceit, today, so it might be wise to check, then double check, everything you are told.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Be wary of those who try to confuse you by introducing irrelevant facts and figures into your conversation. The situation you are currently involved in is quite simple really. Stay focused on the central point so they can't cheat.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 This is a good day for talking with friends and learning from their experiences, but don't immediately rush out and try to do what they have done.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 By all means enjoy yourself but stay within your limits too. The planets warn you could get carried away and do something that invites trouble into your life.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 With Mars squaring up to your ruler Neptune today there is a danger you could be a bit too optimistic for your own good. Confidence is a good thing, of course, but too much of it can cause problems. Steer clear of extremes. SALLY BROMPTON
